The City of Staunton plans to replace the water meter assembly to the church on Wednesday, May 22, which will mean tying onto the existing service line on each side, so the church will not have water service available during the repair/replacement. This may last as much as the better part of a work day, but if all goes well, water should only need to be off for a few hours. (Much depends on the state of the existing service line, which they won't know until they dig it up.)
